"May God assist us!"

Ominous Silence.

Emperor Nicholas read slowly. The admirable, and even cordial, tone of the sovereign in renewing his piedges and asking the co-operation of Parliament for the regeneration of the country was not only negatively satisfactory. Courtiers and spectators and others than members of the National Parliament led the cheering, but the members were omilously silent, expressing neither approval nor disapproval. What rankled most was the failure of the Emperor to mention amnesty, and later, when the members assembled in the Tauride Palace, away from the spell of the throne room, many of them were with difficulty restrained from precipitating matters by offering resolutions on the subject. The constitutional Democratic leaders, however, who dominated everything, were anxious not to weaken the reply which the lower House will prepare to the speech from the throne, in which issues with the errors will be joined, and succeeded in staving off premature action.

The Imperor and the Empresses, after leaving the palace, passed down the river, boarded the imperial yacht Alexandra, and returned to Peterhof. The crowds on the banks of the river and Islands heartly cheered the imperial party. There was no other incident.

A pathetic figure in the scene at the palace was that of Count Witte, of whom the correspondent of the Association Press caught a glimpse, during the ceremony, pacing the cerridor, entirely alone. Later he entered the throne hail, clad in the gold and black uniform of a sceretary of Blate, one of the highest dignituries of the court, which still remains to him, and with the ribbon of the Alexander Nevsky order on his breast. He took his place in the ranks of the old bureaucracy. Former Interior Minister Durnovo was there, too, chatting animately and carnestly with his companions, but Witte seemed to find a cold welcome from every one. Finally, he wandered away and stood apart untithe imperial pageant approached.

The scene around the Tauride Palace was in striking contrast with that at the Minter Palace. Each, indeed, was typical and told an cloquent story. At the Tauride Palace tens of thousands of people were acclaiming their representatives; at the Winter Palace legions of military and courtlers by the hundreds cheered for the Emperor. Nevertheless, the proceedings of the lower house were not spectacular, in fact they were most tame in comparison with those at the Winter Palace.

The only genuine flashes of fire which showed the real temper of the members of the house were when Professor Mourtame in comparison with those at the Winter Palace.

The only genuine finshes of fire which showed the real temper of the members of the house were when Professor Mouromtseff, who had been elected president of the lower house, invited government officials and clerks to leave the hall and when Ivan Patruntewitch, in a few elequent words from the rostrum, told the officials that the Parliament should be for those who have suffered at the cause of liberty, who now filled the prisons and whose arms were stretched out in hope and confidence to the people's representatives. More enthusastic cheering than that which greeted this appeal never was heard in a political convention in the United States.

Constitution and amnesty were the keynotes of President Mourontseff's speech.

wreck of "interests" in the railroad rate bill. He is still leader of his party in the Senate and his powers are many and useful, but he has insted defeat.

The President's Standard Oil message has not yet put the great oil trust out of business, but it has had the effect of assuring the passage of the free alcohol bill. And while this fact is not attracting a great deal of attention, it is really the greatest accomplishment of the Moosethe greatest accomplishment of the Roose the greatest accomplishment of the Roosevelt administration.

Free alcohol means much competition providing for the removal of the internative management of the addition of a substitute quantity of weod alcohol to make it non-potable.

Will Let Bill Pass.

From alcohol means much competition for the Standard Oil. Senator Aldrich is chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance, to which the bill came from the House.

He let it be known that he would put the bill to sleep. The leaders of the party pleaded with him, but he turned a deaf ear to them. The President's wishes were expressed to him, but he said the bill would not be reported from his committee expressed to him, but he said the bill would not be reported from his committee. Chairman Sherman, of the Republican congressional committee, sent a deputation of Republican congressmen and they told Mr. Aldrich that the choking of the free alcohol bill in committee would mean Democratic success in the elections this fall. That did not move Mr. Aldrich. Then the message came and was read and the furore it created in the nation was little more than a rippling smile in the Senate chamber. The Standard Oli is still doing business.

But Senator Aldrich has announced that the free alcohol bill will be reported and that he is in favor of its passage.

For once one of Mr. Roosevelt's big stlek onslaughts has accomplished something. If Mr. Aldrich stays hitched the bill will pass and Standard Oll will have competition which it cannot control and the people will have cheaper fuel and light and the workingen in hat factories light and the workiven in hat factories and mercerized cloth mills will not lose their eyes because of the deadly fumes of the poisonous wood alcohol.

Muchly Wrought Up.

Senator Martin didn't get much sleep last night. Telegrams from Virginia be-gan to pour in on him before he had opportunity to seek his couch and the well-earned repose following a day of wrestling with a rate bill in the Senate, and at short but irregular intervals during the night, the yellow messages came, if from Virginia, and all bearing on the same subject.

Free passes was the subject. The mestom railroad unions in Virginia, protest ng against the action of the Senate yes ing against the action of the Senate yesterday in amending the rate bill so as to prohibit the families of employes of railroads from riding on free passes. Senator Martin said he received at least fifty telegrams on this subject.

"The bill will be modified in respect of this feature," he said to-day, "I shall nttempt to have the modification made and I believe it will be successful. I think it manifestly injust to compel an employ of a railroad company to pay for the transportation of his family over the line, provided the company is willing to transport them free of charge."

Spirit of Fraternity Between Two Great Branches of Church Growing.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., May 10 .- "Not guilty," was the verdict of the Committee of Appeals reached this evening in the case of Rev. Dr. W. W. Wadsworth, of the North Georgia conference. Dr. Wadsworth, the appellant in the case, was suspended from the ministry for a year by the action of his conference last November. He had previously been unanimously exonerated by a Committee of Investigation, which he demanded in the city of Hartwell, Ga., where he was stationed.

But when the conference met, his pre stiling elder, in answer to the question:
"Is there anything against him?" refused to pass his character, and another Committe of Investigation was appointed, which committee reported a trial necessary.

He was then tried upon the charge, found guilty, and suspended for a year. It's people were highly indignant, and confidently expected his complete vindication at the general conference. That vindication has come.

Against Consolidation.

The Committee on Publishing Interests will report non-concurrence in the memorial looking to the consolidation of the hismonthly review and the Nashville Christian Advocate, this decision having been reached at a meeting to-night. At the same meeting it was decided to report non-concurrence in the proposition to make the ministerial book agent the book editor of the Church. Both these matters will be reported to the conference to-morrow.

The Committee on Itinerancy will make a majority and a minority report, the former favoring an extension of the term to six years and the latter the removal of the time limit altogether.

A large number of the delegates, however, favor letting the term remain as it is at present or removing all restrictions. The laymen, it is understood, are largely against the change, and rumor has it that when the matter is brought to a vote on the conference floor they will demand a division of the house, which will make it necessary for those advocating the change to secure a majority vote of both sides, thus causing

The report of Bishop E. E. Hoss, sec-etary of the Commission on Federation, was listened to with closest attention and evoked enthusiastic applause at its conclusion, making it evident that the years, at the end of which those the navy yard plant for the manufacture of chains will have gone to pieces and the trust will then raise prices and recomp for the cheap chains furnished in getting control of the trade.

"I am satisfied that, while we did not get what we wanted," said Mr. Rivey, the leading Democratic mamber of the committee on naval affairs to-day, "the Democrats have succeeded in directing the attention of the country to the way in which the Republicans legislate for the henefit of the trusts.

A BRAIN FOOD AND REPAIRER.

Every minister, lawyer, journalist, physician, author or business man is forced, under pressure of modern conditions, to the active and sometimes overactive use of the brain.

Analysis of the excreta thrown out by the pores shows that brain work breaks down the phospate of potash, separating it from its heavier companion, albumen, and plain common sense teaches that this chemental principal must be introduced into the body anew each day if we would replace the loss and rebuild the brain tissue.

We know that the phospate of potash, as an affinity for albumen, and that is the only way gray matter in the brain can be built. It will not answer to take the crude phosphate of potash of the drug shop, for nature refects it. The elemental mineral must be presented through food directly from Nature's laboratory.

These facts have been made use of in the manufacture of Grape-Nuts, and any brain worker can proye the value of the proper selection of food by making free use of Grape-Nuts for ten days or two weeks.
